

Strategic Management

IN ENGLISH

Strategic Management

This seminar with immense practical relevance is designed specifically for managers involved in strategic planning and implementation like members of the executive board, entrepreneurs, managing directors, profit centers heads, managers responsible for strategic development, managers playing a key role in strategic implementation, and professionals in corporate development.

Concept

The challenge of management is dealing with complexity and dynamic change. Change processes aimed at the long-term prosperity of the firm have to be initiated, designed and steered at the right time. Here, strategic management plays an essential role. Recognizing trends and major changes early is the key to identifying options for safeguarding and developing current businesses and market positions. Strategic options must be evaluated carefully, and the strategy perceived to be the best must be implemented with all the necessary resources and actions. Based on a creative orientation to key customer needs and new technologies, new business opportunities and their perspectives should be identified and targeted.

What makes good strategies better than bad ones? Does it make sense to have a strategy in turbulent times, or can a firm do as well without a strategy? Are strategies just workshop topics, or should they be part of an evolving business-development process? Participants in this seminar learn to develop strategies methodically, using proven, practical tools from business consultancies. They learn how to efficiently control and coordinate the processes of developing and implementing strategy.

Topics

The Concept of Strategic Management

Introduction to the basic philosophy of strategic management, history of strategic management, empirical insights, methodologies and practical application of strategic management:

- ▶ Strategy as turning point for the future
- ▶ The most important strategic questions
- ▶ The process of strategy formulation and strategy implementation: the strategy approach
- ▶ Strategic management in turbulent times

Business Segments as Planning Units

- ▶ Business segments as strategic planning units
- ▶ Segmentation: options, approach
- ▶ Best-practice examples and tools

Recognizing the Strategic Call for Action

- ▶ Anticipation and early recognition of changes
- ▶ Key analytical methodologies; practical exercises with structured tools and best-practice examples
- ▶ Driving forces for new strategies

Promising Strategic Options

- ▶ Ways to develop promising strategic options
- ▶ How to assess strategic options and evaluate their advantages, disadvantages and prerequisites for their implementation
- ▶ How to appraise strategic options in terms of feasibility and success potential

Strategy Formulation

Strategies are crafted following an evaluation of the most promising future strategic options. Good strategies are simple, concise and easy to communicate; they can be unfolded and integrated into everyday business life.

- ▶ Concise strategy formulation; best-practice examples
- ▶ Methods and tools for strategic planning
- ▶ Functional strategies
- ▶ The impact of new media and digital strategies

Changing Structures

Usually, organizational structures are advantageous only for a certain time and business situation. Strategic change often dictates change of organizational structures. Unfortunately, "structure follows strategy" is often misinterpreted as "structure follows trend."
